Faithful Reproductions of Classic Subjects

THERE is a wide difference in the quality of casts, and it is just this difference that determines whether a cast is a work of art or a cheap tawdry ornament.

The connoisseur of art, the student, the teacher, will find represented in the following pages the highest development of the plastic art. In compiling this catalogue, care has been taken to make it reproduce faithfully the fine finish which distinguishes our casts. The wide variety of subjects, the range of prices and the generally classic character of the casts, will carry their own appeal to every person of artistic taste.

In placing this volume before our friends and patrons, we desire to thank them for the support and encouragement which has strengthened our purpose to keep our product in the forefront of American plastic art.

This establishment, founded in 1900, has no connection with any other house.

How to Order From the Catalogue

UNDER each illustration in the catalogue are three columns of text; the first gives the number; the second, the actual size; the third, the price.
Select the size you want of any given cast. Then fill out your order as follows:

Write plainly your name and address.
State the number, name, size and price of the cast you want.
State which finish you desire, whether white or ivory.
State how the shipment is to be made.

If you desire the goods sent C. O. D., enclose a remittance of not less than 25 per cent. of the catalogue price.

There is no extra charge for packing.

Estimates for repairing and renovating plaster casts, furnished upon request.

Brass plates for graduating classes, with inscription, will be furnished from 50 cents up, according to size.

We solicit correspondence from teachers, relative to the decoration of their class rooms.

We recommend the ivory finish as the richest and most beautiful tint for casts. Many who prefer this tint, fear it will soil easily and cannot be readily cleansed. The cast may, however, be easily cleaned with a good soap applied by a sponge or soft brush; after which it should be thoroughly rinsed with cold water.

AMERICA'S approach to European standards in plastic art has been gradual but sure. In the many choice casts illustrated in this catalogue, is to be seen the final achievement of that long desired aim. Connoisseurs and artists unite in their commendation of these productions as realizing the highest artistic ideals in their class.

Nike, or the Victory of Samothrace, was found on the Island of Samothrace in 1863.

It was doubtless a votive offering for the naval victory of Demetrius, of Macedonia, over Ptolemy of Egypt, B. C. 306.

It stood on a pedestal representing the prow of a vessel.

This Frieze is from the Temple of Pallas Athene, Athens. There are about ninety-two in the number, many of which are much mutilated and difficult to make out. It consists of a procession or cavalcade—horsemen of Athens galloping in files, next chariots, probably those gained in the victory, then old men and women of the city. On the north side chorus and instruments and men bearing variously shaped vessels, followed by bulls and their attendants. Then virgins with consecrated gifts and presiding magistrates and seated deities, ending with priests and priestess.

CANTORIA FRIEZE.

This "Singing Gallery" of children, made in the fifteenth century by Luca Della Robbia, for a grand old cathedral in Florence, illustrates the fine old psalm, "Praise Him on the psaltery and on the harp," etc. The panels are filled with children exquisitely carved in marble; some playing on musical instruments, a few dancing and two or three groups singing, such life-like little singers that you can almost hear them. So popular has this frieze become that casts of these little musicians are found in every civilized country in the world.

THE TRIUMPH OF ALEXANDER INTO BABYLON. BY THORWALDSEN. (See page 114.)

Beautiful in conception, harmonious and impressive in execution, this work was made by Thorwaldsen in honor of Napoleon's visit to Rome in 1812.

The first portion symbolizes the quiet, peaceful life of the people of Babylon: the camel in the marketplace, the fisherman on the river bank, the shepherd boy with his sheep.

On hearing the news that Alexander is approaching with his victorious army, the people, led by their conquered general, Mazaeus, hasten to meet him with gifts of horses and wild animals. The whole procession is preceded by the Genius of Peace bearing an olive branch.

The triumphant cohorts then appear, Alexander himself leading in his chariot driven by a winged victory. The conqueror, spear in hand, turns back to glance at the advancing column of soldiers which follows in great numbers—horsemen, foot soldiers and even an elephant.
